MAIL TO SELF

Thank you for being the beautiful sunshine in my life. Thank you for being a constant support, a pillar of strength and a guide in my life. Thank you for understanding my quirks and striving to let me be what I want to be. Thank for understanding my ambitions and helping me in taking the steps towards those goals.

Thank you for understanding my ideals, my feminist views and my vices. I am thankful that you understand me completely without judging my choices in life. Thank you for choosing to love me without putting any conditions. Thank you very much for being the blessing in my life that lifts my spirit.

I have never ever felt being ridiculed in your company and I cherish you for being comfortable with my identity. You are center of everything my life revolves around and hope everything falls in place beautifully when we decide to live our life together. I will never take your love for granted and will pray for a life of happiness with you in it forever.
