

MAIL to SELF

Dear Mr./Mrs. XYZ

I'm just going to say outright Mr./Mrs. XYZ, you're one heck of a salesperson. The zeal that you showed me and my friend during the test drive really convinced us to consider selling our cars and buying a new one. I mean, we were at your showroom just to kill some time and go for test drives on cars. But your persona was so positively contagious, that we'll probably be coming back to your showroom to check out the various options that you have available.

You deserve a promotion, good sir. And we're definitely going to put in a good word for you with your manager. Anyway, we'll see you this Friday if we get off from our work on time. And maybe, we can grab a couple of beers later, if that's all good with you? And Aaron feels the same way. He's already put his car on sale. So, thank you for investing all that energy into us man. And yes, do tell us if you're free on Friday night or not.

Your potential buddies

(Name1 & Name2)

(Date)